PREFACE

The 1983 Population Census of the Socialist Republic of the Union of Burma was conducted from 1 to 5 April on a de-jure basis. It was carried out successfully as an important national undertaking under the guidance of the Burma Socialist Programme Party, under the supervision of the Peoples' Councils at different levels and with the active participation of Lanzin Youth members, government employees, armed services personnel, students, teachers and mass organization members.

The census project has been implemented under the sponsorship of the Ministry of Home and Religious Affairs. Census Committees were formed at Central, State, Division, Township, Ward and Village Tract levels to organize and conduct the census operations. These committees were responsible for the actual census taking. In addition, the Central Committee is responsible for the data processing and publication of the census results.

The 1983 Census was the first national census using two different questionnaires: a short form consisting of 7 social questions to be asked to 80 percent of the population and a long form consisting of 18 social, economic and demographic questions for the remaining 20 percent.

The provisional results of this census based on manual counts were published as an advance release in October, 1983. The present publication contains the population of the 17 townships of Rakhine State. According to the 1983 Census, Rakhine State has a population of 2,045,559, an area of 36,778.072 square kilometers and a population density of 56 persons per square kilometer.

In Rakhine State, there are 9 townships which have more than 100,000 persons and the most populous township is Maungdaw township with a population of 279,996. The second and third most populous townships are Buthidaung and Sittwe townships with 185,555 persons and 175,676 persons respectively.

I am grateful to the people of the Socialist Republic of the Union of Burma for supplying their personal particulars and to the various government ministries and departments for their active co-operation and assistance. I would also like acknowledge the good and timely work done by the Census Committees at different levels, Ministry of Information, and the Printing and Publishing Corporation. I would like to especially thank the Chairman and members of the Central Census Committee for their guidance, direction and contribution towards this endeavour.

I would also like to express my gratitude to the United Nations Development Programme, United Nations Fund for Population Activities, U.S. Agency for International Development and the Government of Norway for their generous assistance without which the issue of this final printed publication would have been delayed.

The officers and staff of the Immigration and Manpower Department offices in states and divisions worked whole heartedly and each of them gave his or her best in ensuring that the census was carried out successfully. I place on record my deep sense of gratitude to all of them. I would also like to thank the officers and staff of my own office who were involved in the census project.

In particular, I must record my appreciation to the Census Department for the arduous task of the scrutinization and compilation of the census data and the preparation of the analysis of the census result. I am also greatly indebted to the hard work of the officers and staff of the Immigration and Manpower Department Computation Center in bringing out this publication in time.

Report

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

1. The second post-war decennial census for the Socialist Republic of the Union of Burma was conducted from April 1 to 5, 1983 with the following objectives :

- (a) To obtain reliable population statistics needed for implementing economic and social planning and administrative services for the country;
- (b) To provide government institutions with important social, economic and demographic information required to fulfill their respective functions;
- (c) To make basic scientific analysis and research on the current state of the population such as size, composition, distribution, growth and changes;
- (d) To provide a basic frame for future social, economic and other sample surveys.

2. An advance release of a preliminary population count was published in October, 1983. The current volume, published for Rakhine State is the fifteenth of the series of 1983 Census publications. Rakhine State with an area of 14,200.083 square miles (36,778.1 sq. km.) is located between 17°21' N and 21°24' N latitudes and 92°10' E and 94°54' E longitudes bordering Bangladesh on the north-west, Chin State on the north, Magwe Division, Pegu Division and Irrawaddy Division on the east and the Bay of Bengal on the west and south.

3. Rakhines, Mro, Thet, Mramagy, Daingnet, Kaman, Linke, Anoo, Shandoo, Khaungso, Burmans and Chins inhabit the 17 townships and 1,160 Wards and Village Tracts of Rakhine State.

4. Agriculture is the main economic activity: principal crops being paddy, chilli, Burmese tobacco, coconut, betel nut and dhani, Groundnut, maize, rubber, matpe, bocate bean, soya bean and gram are also cultivated.

5. Rathetaung Township, Baronga Island, Cheduba Island, Ramree Island and Muwe Island produce some oil. Coal is found in Sittwe Township and marble in Taungup Township. There is a four-mile long lime-stone hill on Ramree Island. Half of the State is covered with forests that yield valuable woods and bamboos. Solar salt making is another occupation in Sandoway, Taungup and Kyaukpyu townships.

6. The main lines of communication to Rakhine State are by sea and by air. Kyaukpyu port is a good international freighter port. At one time Rakhine State was a populous State with many capital cities of Rakhine Kings.

7. In the 1983 Census, two different questionnaires were used. A short form consisting of 7 questions was used for 80 percent of the population and a long form consisting of 18 questions for the remaining 20 percent sample of the population.

8. Of the 14 tables contained in this volume, 5 were compiled from the short form and 8 from the long form. One table, viz TABLE 2 of Part Two was compiled from the structure listings.

CHAPTER II

EXPLANATIONS AND DEFINITIONS

Explanations

1. As mentioned above, two different questionnaires, short and long, were used. A list of the census blocks (enumeration areas) was used as a sampling frame and a one-stage stratified, replicated, systematic sampling method was adopted. The total area of the country was divided into 14 strata and 10 replicates in each stratum for sample selection. Sample selection was designed in such a way as to represent urban and rural areas separately.

2. The total population count is based on the sum of the persons enumerated with the short and long forms. Education, economic and fertility characteristics covered by the long form are weighted to match the total population count based on urban/rural areas, sex and age (14 categories).

3. The questionnaires were designed in a pre-coded form to facilitate manual processing and data entry. The short form covered 7 questions as listed below:

- (a) Name
- (b) Relationship to head of household
- (c) Sex
- (d) Age
- (e) Marital Status
- (f) Race
- (g) Religion

4. Besides these 7 questions, the long form covered 11 additional questions on socio-economic and fertility characteristics. The additional questions in the long form are listed below :

- (a) School attendance
- (b) Highest standard passed

- (c) Literacy
- (d) Occupation
- (e) Industry
- (f) Employment status
- (g) Reason for not working
- (h) Working during last 12 months
- (i) Children ever born alive
- (j) Children still living
- (k) Date of birth of last child

5. The time reference for economic characteristics was 2 weeks preceding the census date. However, the question on working during the last 12 months was asked to study seasonal variation in labour force participation.

6. The methods and concepts used in the 1983 Census were almost identical to those which were used in the 1973 Census with the exception of the collection of the economic characteristics. In the 1983 Census, in choosing the principal occupation of a respondent with dual occupation, the time criterion was used instead of the income criterion used in the 1973 Census.

CHAPTER III

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

Coverage

1. Rakhine State covers 14,200.083 square miles (36,778.1 sq. km.) and consists of 17 townships. In these townships, there are 119 wards and 1041 village tracts which are the basic administrative areas. Enumeration covers the whole area of Rakhine State.

Total Population

2. According to the final results, the total population of Rakhine State is 2,045,559 with 1,012,641 males and 1,032,918 females showing an excess of females over males. Of the total population, household population constitutes 99.5 percent and institutional population constitutes 0.5 percent. Moving population consists less than 0.1 percent. Institutional population is composed of 95.1 percent males and 4.9 percent females while moving population consists of 76.3 percent males and 23.7 percent females. In the 'Advance Release' publication, the total population for Rakhine State was shown as 2,045,891. Therefore, preliminary count differs only 0.02 percent from the final results.

Density

3. Population density for Rakhine State is 144 persons per square mile (56 persons per sq. km.) as against 121 persons per square mile (47 persons per sq. km.) in 1973.

Growth

4. The total population in 1983 is 2,045,559 whereas it was 1,712,838 in 1973. The annual inter-censal growth rate of the population is 1.79 percent.

Urban and Rural Population

5. Total urban population is 303,764 and rural population is 1,741,795. Urban population is 14.8 percent of the total population.

Age and Sex

6. In Rakhine State the number of females exceeds the number of males. The sex ratio for Rakhine State is 98.0 males per 100 females.

7. The median ages for males and females have increased in 1983 compared to 1973. The comparison of median ages are shown below :

	1973	1983
(a) Median age for males	18.0 years	19.2 years
(b) Median age for females	18.5 years	19.8 years

8. Age composition in 1983 reflects a considerable change. The percentage distribution of the total population by broad age groups and dependency ratios are presented below :

	1973	1983
(a) Under 15 years	43.20	39.90
(b) 15-59 years	51.30	53.90
(c) 60 years and over	5.50	6.20
(d) Dependency ratio	0.95	0.85

9. The percentage distribution of the population by 5 year age groups is presented in Table A - 1 and age pyramids for 1973 and 1983 are presented in Figure 1.

10. With a view to test if there are distortions in the age data, Whipple's and Myers' indices are calculated. They are as follows :

		Total	Urban	Rural
(a) Whipple's index	Males	160.6	138.2	164.4
	Females	169.3	141.6	174.4
(b) Myers' index	Males	21.7	13.9	23.1
	Females	26.4	16.8	28.2

11. These indices show that the reporting of age in the 1983 Census is rough.

Persons in Labour Force

18. In the 1983 census, persons on leave were treated as employed. So persons in the labour force consists of only two categories: employed persons and those seeking work. Of the total persons in the labour force, employed persons constitute 96.8 percent and those seeking work constitute 3.2 percent. In 1973, employed persons (also including persons on leave) constitute 97.8 percent and those seeking work constitute 2.2 percent. Children Born Alive and Still Living

23. Since the vital statistics data are scanty for the country, the questions on children born alive and children still living were incorporated in the 1983 Census questionnaire. These questions were asked only to Ever Married Women (EMW) 15 years of age and over. Some general fertility indicators are given below :

(a) Gross Fertility Ratio	3.12
(b) Completed Fertility Ratio	4.86
(c) Proportion of childless women by the end of their reproductive span	0.14
(d) Average number of children born per woman who has already borne at least a child	4.52
(e) Net Fertility Ratio	2.28

CHAPTER IV

ASSESSMENT OF QUALITY OF CENSUS DATA

1. The 1983 Census was the first nation wide census to adopt the sampling technique to collect population data using two different questionnaires; a short form consisting of 7 questions to be asked to 80 percent of the population and a long form consisting of 18 questions for the remaining 20 percent on a sample basis.
2. The sampling technique was adopted because it has general advantages over the traditional full enumeration. It is cheaper, makes possible the selection of better quality enumerators for the sample blocks, improved training, supervision and control over the field staff and reduces the number of staff and time required for data processing.
3. For the 1983 Census, a one stage stratified, replicated, systematic sampling method was adopted to select the 20 percent sample blocks. Sampling error occurs when observations are made on the basis of a sample. Thus, all estimates based on the 20 percent enumeration of the 1983 Census are subject to sampling error.
4. Table A-13 gives the sample estimates, standard errors and the 95 percent confidence interval estimates for some selected variables.
